Plane debris found on Panama Lane and Buena Vista Rd Bakersfield

(23ABC) KCSO says a debris from a plane was found on Panama Lane and Buena Vista Rd. on Saturday. Its unknown if its the same missing plane that FAA reported earlier. An official with the Federal Aviation Administration said in a statement to 23ABC that a single-engine plane disappeared off the radar about 10 miles south of Bakersfield Saturday afternoon. Senior Deputy John Carpenter with the Kern County Sheriff's Department said that at about 4:25 p.m., Kern County law enforcement received a call from LA Traffic Control that a mayday call from a single engine plane was broadcasted. Crews from KCSO, Bakersfield Police Department, California Highway Patrol and Kern County Fire Department all joined in the search and by 7:24 p.m., debris was found spread out across the area. Carpenter said that they aren't sure how many were onboard the aircraft when it crashed and he's not sure if weather was a factor. At about 8:15 p.m., officials have shut down Panama Lane west of Buena Vista Rd. due to the investigation of a possible missing plane. Officials said the missing plane was a Piper PA32 model. The FAA official added that the plane was flying from Reid-Hillview Airport in San Jose and was headed to the Henderson Executive Airport in Nevada.

Air France flight diverted to Kenya after bomb scare

(CNN) An Air France flight headed to Paris made an emergency landing in Kenya on Sunday after a suspicious device was reported on board, authorities said. The Boeing 777 departed from Mauritius late Saturday night with 473 people aboard, Kenyan police chief Joseph Boinnet said. It requested permission to land at Moi International Airport in Mombasa after a passenger discovered the device in the restroom, he said. "The plane landed there safely at 12:37 a.m. local time," Boinnet said in a statement. All passengers were evacuated without incident. Bomb experts have retrieved the device and are working to determine whether it contains explosives. Authorities said the plane was removed from the runway and some passengers are undergoing questioning. The airport was temporarily shut down following the incident, but has since reopened, according to the Kenya Airports Authority. Air France Flight 463 was expected to arrive in Paris Charles de Gaulle Airport on Sunday.

SITUATION SUMMARY

Cal EOC Incident – 2014 Drought

- SOC / Inland REOC remains activated in support of 2014 Drought

Weather of Concern

- There is the potential for heavy snow Sunday morning through Sunday afternoon across interior portions of Northwest California. A Snow accumulation of 4 to 7 inches above 3000 feet is likely. Localized amounts of a foot will be possible above 4500 feet. Some accumulation may also occur down to elevations as low as 2000 feet in Trinity County. Major routes potentially affected include highways 3, 36, and 299.
- A relatively large northwest swell will build along the Central Coast this evening, bringing surf of 10-12 feet with local sets to 15 feet. The largest surf is expected on west and northwest-facing beaches from this evening through Sunday evening. This will produce dangerous rip currents, minor beach erosion, and sneaker waves that can inundate beaches and overtop jetties and rock walls.

WEATHER

WEATHER SYNOPSIS BY REGION:

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA AND CENTRAL COASTAL AREAS:

Eureka Weather:

A cold front will bring periods of rain and snow to northwest ca today. A brief break in the weather will occur tonight followed by a potent rain producing system which will move through the region on Monday and Tuesday providing abundant rainfall and possible flooding.

Medford Weather:

A moderate storm today will be followed by another major storm early Monday through early Tuesday. Lighter precipitation will then be persistent later Tuesday through Wednesday.

Reno Weather:

Active winter pattern continues through the end of the week. While none of these systems are strong by sierra standards, each will bring snow, wind, and the potential for travel headaches. The main periods of concern will be Monday into Tuesday and Christmas Eve into Christmas Day. At this point it appears that Wednesday will be the best travel day if your plans include crossing the Sierra.

San Francisco Weather:

A front will bring a wave of rain to the North Bay starting this morning and then spreading south into the San Francisco bay area around noon. Unsettled weather is expected to persist through the week with another system slated for late Monday into Tuesday.

WEATHER

WEATHER SYNOPSIS BY REGION:

CENTRAL CALIFORNIA AND SOUTHERN SAN JOAQUIN VALLEY:

Sacramento Weather:

Wet pattern remains in place through the end of the week. Travel impacts likely at times through the week due to mountain snow. A significant storm is possible Christmas Eve.

Hanford Weather:

Locally dense fog in the central San Joaquin valley through the morning, a series of weather systems will impact the region through most of next week. Temperatures will be at or just above normal.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA:

Los Angeles Weather:

The cold front has moved eastward. It will be cool and dry today followed by a slight warming trend through midweek. Another cold system may bring rain and mountain snow to the region on Christmas Eve.

Extreme Southwestern California including Orange, San Diego, Western Riverside and Southwestern San Bernardino Counties:

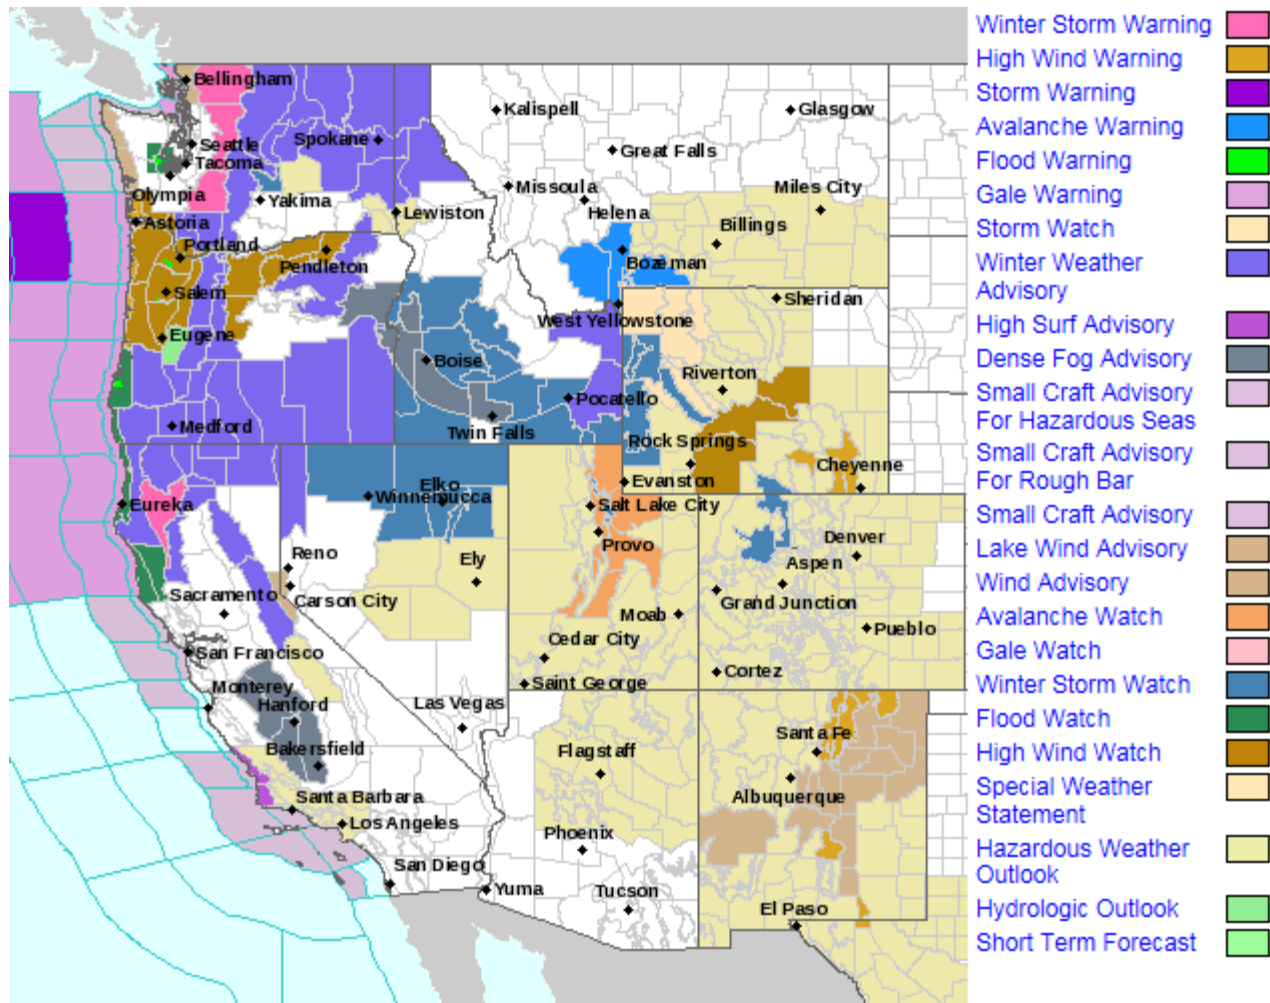

Dry weather moves into Monday behind a low pressure system moving inland across the southern tier of states with warming on Monday to slightly below average. For Monday night through Wednesday a few periods of mostly light precipitation are possible in moist west northwest flow aloft. For Thursday into Friday a trough of low pressure moving inland through the western states will bring cooling gusty west winds in the mountains and deserts and a chance of showers. Dry with a warming trend for next weekend under high pressure.

Southeast California Weather:

A weak frontal boundary will bring slightly cooler conditions to the area today. Pacific moisture will spread across the region through the week resulting in periods of cloudiness and a slight chance of precipitation. Temperatures will remain near normal but are expected to drop late in the week and into the weekend as a low pressure system affects the desert southwest.
